What is Camp Erin?

Camp Erin is a free, weekend bereavement camp for youth who are grieving the death of significant person in their lives. Children and teens ages 6 to 17 attend a weekend camp experience that combines grief education and emotional support with fun, traditional camp activities. Led by bereavement professionals and caring volunteers, campers are provided a safe environment to explore their grief, learn essential coping skills, and make friends with peers who are also grieving.

At Camp Erin, youth have the opportunity to be around other children and teens who have experienced similar loss. The retreat weekend will help bereaved youth share their grief experiences in creative ways through art projects, time to talk and share, outdoor games and challenge courses, participate in memorial activities and even share a campfire experience!

About Because Kids Grieve

Because Kids Grieve is a 501 (c)(3) that is dedicated in helping families cope with the loss of a loved one. We deal primarily with children and teens, however the entire family is important in the endeavor of healing a child's grieving heart. We have day camps and special events as well as an annual summer camp that help the child find out that they are not alone. They meet and learn with other children and our volunteers. Our volunteers have background checks. Your child's safety is our first concern. Our staff has certified counselors, social workers, nurses, chaplains and many other volunteers all having experience and training in dealing with grieving children and teens. We want the families to be involved and look forward to you talking to us to see how we can help. ALL OF OUR SERVICES ARE FREE! We host a fall bereavement conference each year with speakers and educational programs. There is reasonable charge for this.

Parents or guardians must complete an application for each child or teen who would like to attend. Applications are accepted until all available spaces are filled. Space is limited, so we encourage you to return the completed application as soon as possible.
